"BEING MYSELF INCLUDES TAKING RISKS WITH MYSELF, TAKING RISKS
ON NEW BEHAVIOUR, TRYING NEW WAYS OF 'BEING MYSELF,' SO THAT I CAN SEE HOW IT IS I WANT TO BE."

-- HUGH PRATHER

[B]etween the first & last page of this book, you will find students achieving goals beyond expectations, along with coaches and teammates supporting & believing in each other. You will also recognize SADD trying to promote better behaviors, as well as the bands & choirs creating a beat.

Turning through the pages you will see originality & beauty like there is in all of us.

Before you turn the last page, it will be beyond easy to believe how we are all individuals but also how, as a school, we all become one & we all belong. So don't be afraid to be yourself.

(BE) SPIRITED

Spirit Week has had a tendency to bring conflict between the senior and junior classes. Most of it was held outside of school this year because the school officials, with help from the Student Council, anticipated this and clearly outlined the consequences.

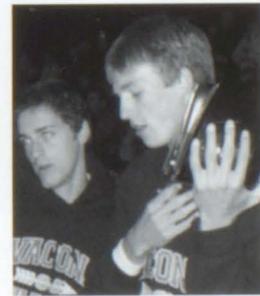

"Student Council did not participate in any activities that might have been destructive such as class color day, and we made sure to think of other alternatives to make Homecoming a fun week," explained Student Council President Meredith Proulx.

Cheering for the same team and sharing the happiness of a victory or the sadness of a defeat is something that unifies all grades.

"I participated in class color day, but my favorite part of homecoming was during the football game at the end of the week when we put all the class conflict aside, and we all cheered for our team together," said junior Calleigh Melchert.

The loyalty to the Wildcats remains Spirit Week's binding tie.

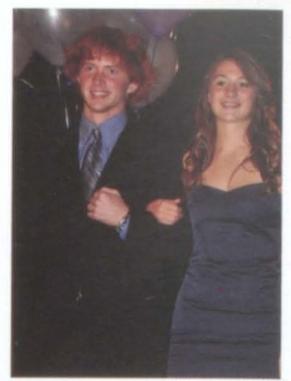

"I had to leave Waconia for a bit to go to Holy Family, and it was not the same. I didn't even like cheering for their teams. I couldn't bring myself to do it. The Wildcats are my team," said senior Brian McAvoy.

Top: During their coronation introduction, candidates Pete Brettingen and Kelsey Wenning pause to do the "fish bowl" with seniors Charlie Smothers and Dillon Pomeroy.

(BE)FORE THE ACTION

Homecoming week definitely creates many memories for high school students. These memories include class rivalries, pep rallies, dress up days, coronation and the football game itself.

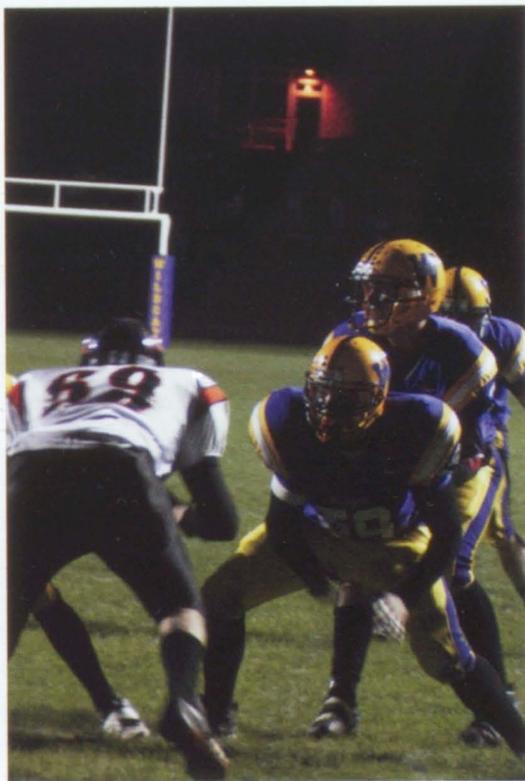

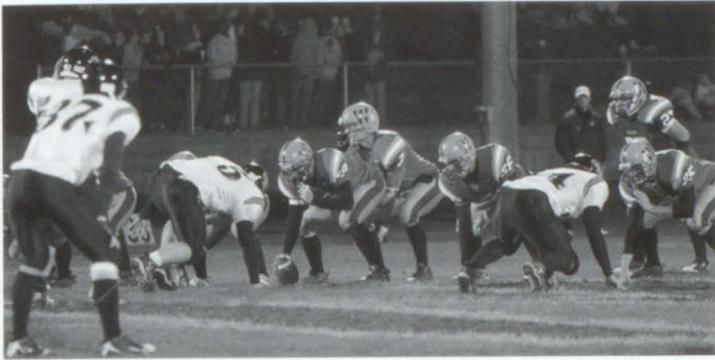

This year, many students, parents and friends filed into the gym waiting excitedly to see who would be crowned king and queen.

Initially, students voted for Homecoming candidates, escorts and pages during their first hour classes. Once the court was named, the Student Council conducted a second round of voting to determine the king and queen during first hour classes.

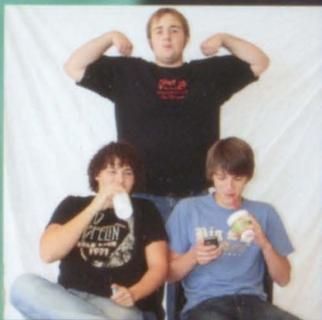

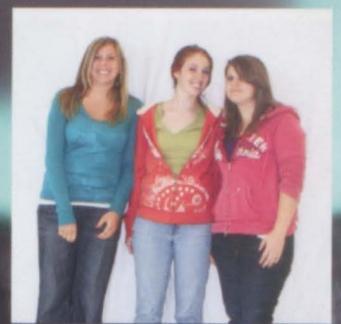

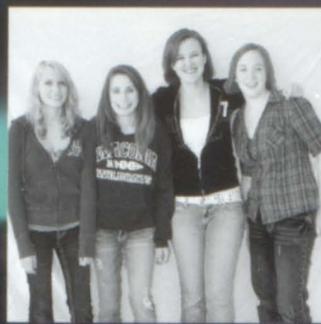

To determine who was king and queen, the Student Council gave each candidate a white card with a playing card glued to the inside. The candidates each held a ten of clubs on the inside while the king and queen held a king or queen of hearts.

Everyone cheered and applauded as Jessica Rice received the queen of hearts, and Dane Aadland received the king of hearts. The 2009 king and queen acknowledged the crowd as they strolled across the gym floor.

Below: The Wildcats prepare for a snap of the ball during their non-conference game against Grand Rapids, who the Wildcats defeated 36-7.

YOU KNOW YOU'RE A SENIOR WHEN...

You always sit in the front row at sporting events.

You don't know half the students in the school, but they all know you.

You're considered to be the "leaders" of the school.

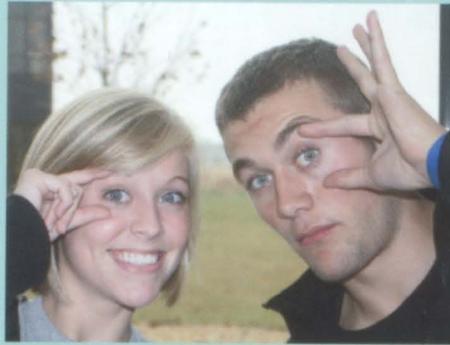

You have the opportunity to take more elective classes.

You have at least one T.A. or independent study each trimester.

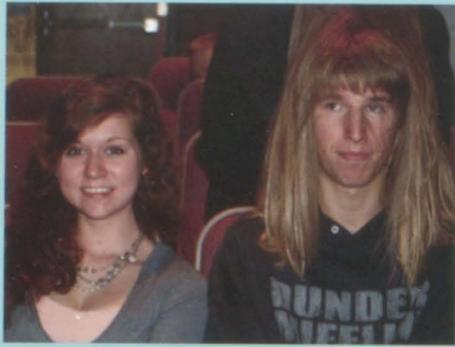

The majority of the mail you receive is from colleges.

You love every second of your senior year!

RYAN SAMUELSON

April 15, 1991 - June 10, 2009

Ryan Samuelson was a loving, caring, friendly, always -smiling boy. Every-day before school, he would park his Chevy truck in the back of the parking lot with his friends. They all enjoyed doing burn-outs in the parking lot and then backing in their trucks into their parking spaces.

Ryan passed away on June 10, 2009. Following Ryan's passing, many of Ryan's friends put together a memorial to remember him. Led by senior Jesse Conkey, Ryan's friends and family spray painted a memorial for Ryan in his usual parking spot.

Many friends and family members gathered together in the parking lot to celebrate and honor Ryan's life.

Above: Ryan's friends and family made a cross to remember him. The cross was signed by many friends and family members.

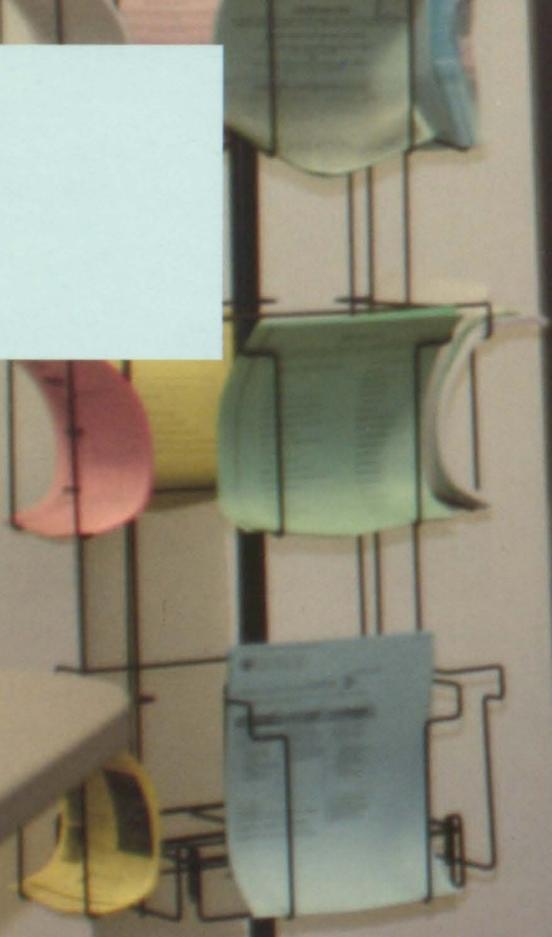

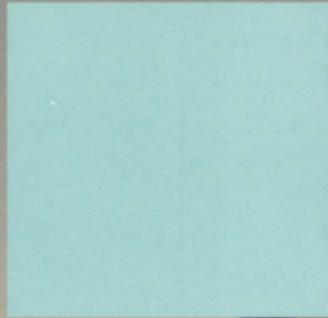

Above: Ryan's mother, brothers and father hold the cross in front of Ryan's memorial at Waconia High School.

ACTIVITIES

BEHIND THE SCENES

Ladders, black cats and broken mirrors aren't common sights at school, but they were on Friday, Nov. 13, when National Arts Honor Society and SADD teamed up to present "Superstitions," the 2009 Living Live show.

Much like the spring coffeehouse, which is another NAHS event, Living Live gives students a chance to showcase their talents in a low key, laidback format.

"The school has many great opportunities, but not all students have time to be in the groups. Living Live gives them a chance to participate and have some fun," said advisor Amy Fischer.

NAHS members created scenery and props, helped in the concession stand, and promoted the event throughout the school.

There are no talent requirements to join NAHS; students just have to show that art is an important part of their lives. They also must participate in half the activities and at least four art related service projects. This national group offers scholarships for some students.

They average about 50 participants in grades 10- 12 and always have a variety of activities throughout the year including a field trip to Activision Studios, a company that creates video games, a visit to a Minneapolis art museum and a visit to the Minneapolis Center for Book Arts.

Left: Addy Scrimgeour, Jared Tuttle, Margaux Jensen, and Bailey Monson take a break following the February NAHS meeting. The group planned an upcoming field trip.

Left: Marshall Born plays the drums during a performance at Living Live. There were a variety of instruments played that night.

Left: Senior Soren Wille beat boxes with other performers. There were many different types of musical and theatrical acts at Living Live 2009.

DID YOU KNOW...

The first pigments used in painting were ground from earth, minerals, and organic matter.

In 1962 DaVinci's Mona Lisa was valued at $100 million

Picasso could draw before he could walk.

The first illustrated book was printed in Germany in 1658.

The first color photograph was made in 1861 and was of a ribbon.

Left: Sophomore Deano Erickson plays the guitar as senior Cecelia Findorff sings at Living Live on Friday Nov. 13. They were performing songs written by Findorff.

Below: Seniors Erica Karels and Carly Stockert sing songs and help entertain the crowd at Living Live. Many performed original material at the venue.

Left: Sophomore Christine Leonard sings along with accompaniment on the Living Live stage. Despite the "unlucky" theme, all the performers did well.

Left: Sophomores Kevin Knutson and Marshall Born perform next to a ladder set up on the stage. The ladders were there to emphasize the superstitions theme.

2009-2010 FCCLA Highlights

- All region Star Event participants earned a trip to compete at the state competition
- Money earned at the Winterfest dance was donated to the Children's Miracle Network
- Began a bullying prevention program at Southview and Bayview Elementary schools

BEING CREATIVE

"Life's a canvas - create it." This was the Minnesota FCCLA State theme this year. The Waconia chapter developed their projects around this theme.

Senior Stephanie McGinn did a career investigations project this year. She designed her future career and learned about what it takes to be a speech pathologist. Seniors Allison Armstrong and Jordan Reeves did a different set of projects this year. They worked with the elementary schools to teach young children about using their caring hearts and not bullying others. They also worked with the middle school children to create the WAVE program, Wildcats Against Violence Everyday.

Another large group project in FCCLA this year was the parley team. The parley team conducts business meetings for the chapter using the parliamentary procedures. They compete against other teams at state to see who has created the best business meeting.

"Parley is a way to explore something new and unusual I've never done before," said parley team member Marisa Melchert.

Senior Laurel Pierson's project concentrated on food consumption and food safety. She created a workshop to teach other students about this topic. Juniors James Froehling and Chaneen Haler created a plan to lower the energy expenses of the school. They also created a workshop to teach students about energy efficiency in their homes.

"FCCLA is a great way for students to be involved with the community and help other people," said Froehling.

Left: Waconia had strong participation at the region Star Event competition. This year, one hundred percent of the competitors advanced to state competition.

FUN FACTS

- Founded in 1981 as Students Against Driving Drunk
- The original goal of SADD was to help students say "no" to drinking and driving.
- SADD expanded its mission and changed its name to Students Against Destructive Decisions in 1997.
- 86% of teens and 95% of adults think that SADD is a good influence.

Right: Senior Addy Scrimgeour places a ribbon on a car. During Red Ribbon Week, students placed ribbons on cars in the school's parking lot. These ribbons were to remind students to make good decisions in their lives.

BE THE ANTI-DRUG

Growing from 75 members to over 200 members, Students Against Destructive Decisions has grown tremendously in the last couple years. These role models of the school have all made a choice to live drug and alcohol free.

This year, one of SADD's main activities was Red Ribbon Week. Its purpose was to raise students awareness about the goal of SADD. Students were encouraged to take part in the weeks activities, even if they weren't in the club. "The fact that there are a lot more activities made kids more interested," said Dana Rathmanner, SADD advisor.

Each day of Red Ribbon Week had a theme. Students could dress up according to what the day's theme was. One activity allowed students to place red ribbons on car windshields to remind students to make safe decisions in their lives.

Red Ribbon Week was kicked off by an assembly in the auditorium. SADD members stood on the stage and lit a candle, each stating how they were going to stay drug and alcohol free. Afterwards, all students were encouraged to sign the pledge to stay drug and alcohol free.

"It was a great way for people to get involved with SADD," said senior Nicole Gregory.

Red Ribbon Week was not only an educational week for students, it was also meant to be fun for them. SADD has only grown over the years, so perhaps more students are becoming more aware of its goal.

BEING A VOICE FOR THE STUDENT BODY

The 2009-2010 Student Council had one main goal: to unite the student body and build on past school years' traditions.

Composed of students from all four grades who were chosen during the spring of 2009, student council members met for meetings every other Monday at 7 a.m. Led by Student Council President Meredith Proulx and co-advisors Dustin Neibauer and Drew Sodey, members planned major school activities including Spirit Week, the Spirit Week dance, Turkey Bingo, holiday hot chocolate distribution, the Teacher Appreciation breakfast, and one new project – recognizing each student and staff member's birthday.

Besides unifying the school, the council also hosts one major service project – the school blood drive, held in February. Completing all these activities takes a lot of teamwork and cooperation.

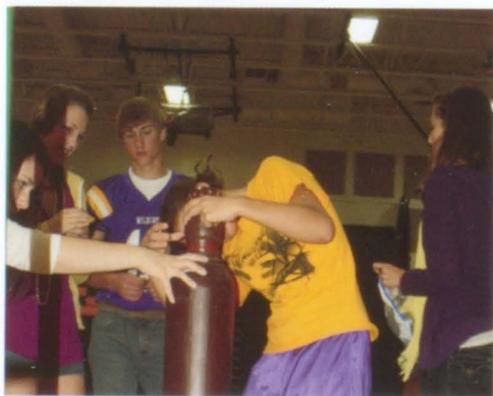

"We form one team no matter what grade or age someone is," said junior Katie Hennie.

At the end of the year, student council members take a field trip to Mall of America as a way of rewarding themselves for all their hard work.

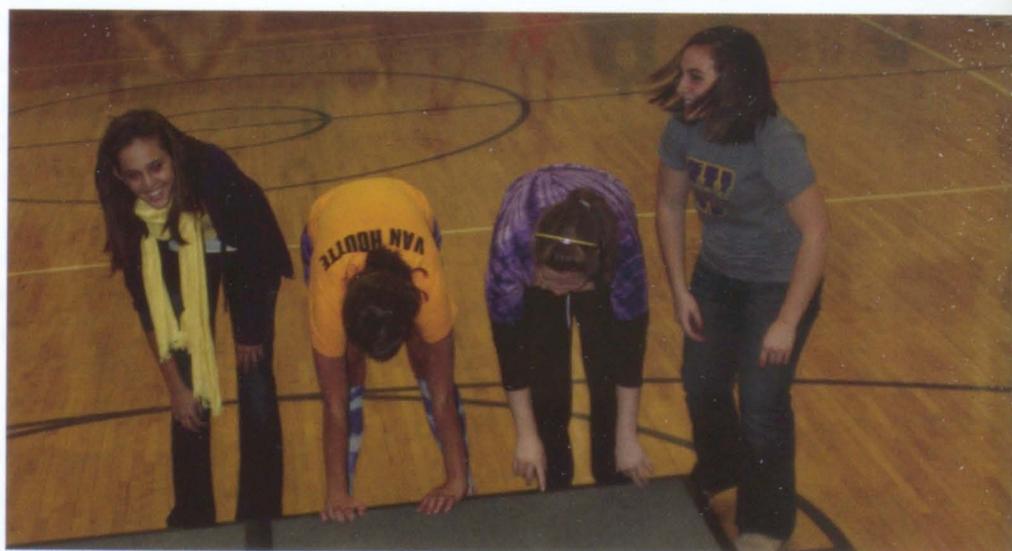

"It's a way for us to have fun at the end of the year and to say goodbye to the senior members on the council," said Heenie.

BEING HELPFUL IN TIMES OF NEED

Peer Helpers planned events that helped the school and the communities of District 110. They began the year by giving tours to new students and their families. They also hosted a pizza party for students who were new to the district and for all foreign exchange students.

But their helpfulness extended beyond the classroom during Stuff-A-Truck, a contest that encouraged all first hour classes to collect non-perishable food items.

Peer Helpers treated each weekly winner. The office won week one, collecting 239 pounds; Ms. Palma's class won week two, collecting 82 pounds. Mr. Bristor's class won week three, collecting 385 pounds, and Mrs. Kuerschner's class, the overall winner of a pizza party, collected 1,140.8 pounds of food.

Overall, Waconia High School collected 5,230.3 pounds of food, which was stuffed into a large truck and sent to Mackethun's County Market.

Peer Helpers help as much as they can for our school and community. Advisor Lynette Alger takes a lot of pride in her Peer Helpers.

"My favorite part is seeing the good deeds being done," said Alger. "I was given this job, but I wouldn't give it up."

BEING ACTIVE IN YOUR COMMUNITY

National Honor Society thrives on making a difference in the community by helping in any way possible.

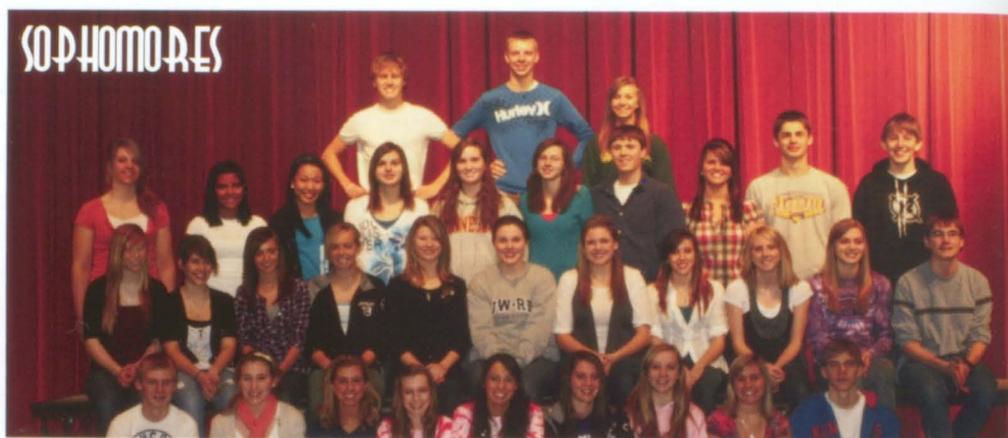

Sophomores through seniors who have complete 40 service hours, who have a cumulative GPA of 3.5, and who are involved in three activities may apply for induction into NHS. Currently, there are 120 members.

"I have learned so much more about the opportunities for community service," said junior Tori Larkin. "Joining NHS made me more aware of the numerous ways to help the community."

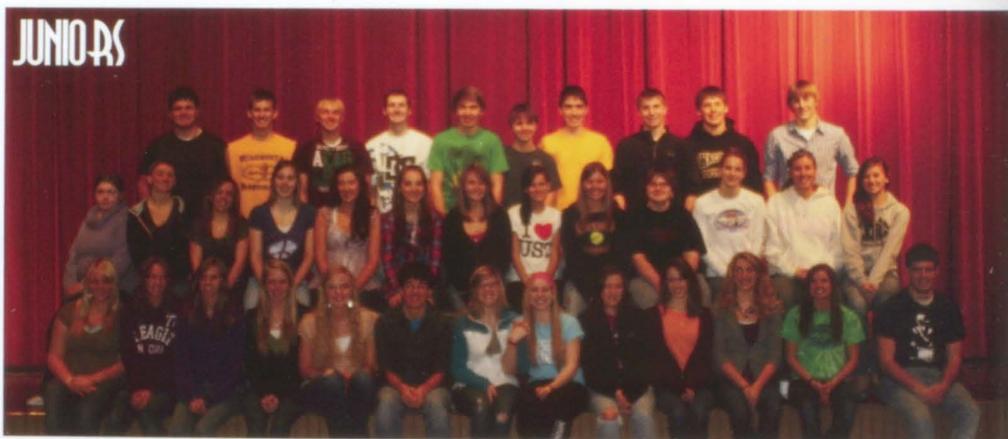

This year there were many ways to help. One of the most popular was the Dollars for Scholars telethon. The goal was to raise scholarship money for seniors.

"Even though it's all a lot of work, in the end it's nice to know it all went to someone who needs the help," said junior Chaneen Haler.

BEING A ROLEMODEL

Once a week, America Reads students go to one of three elementary schools to help kids with their reading skills.

"America Reads is a very popular program. We have more volunteers than we have spaces available," said American Reads coordinator and Assistant Principal Jeff Jeska.

Many participants love seeing their elementary student progress.

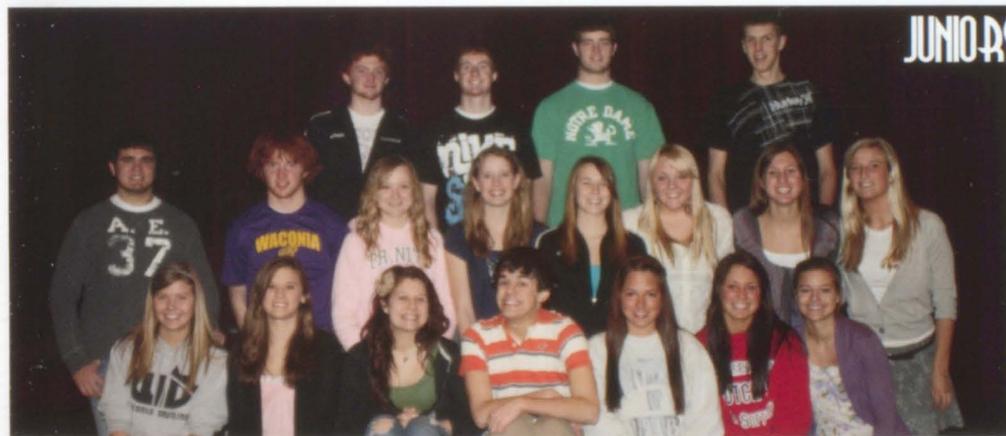

"I love helping the kids, and seeing their improvement after the first month is probably the best feeling," said junior Morgan Schultz.

Seeing progress is one small reward while working with students.

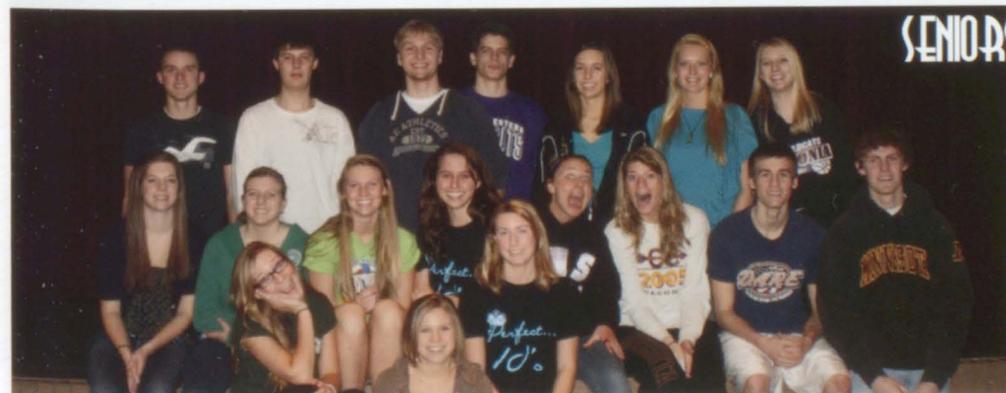

"I love when the kids get excited when they finish a book, play a game, or get a prize for reading," said junior AnnMarie Powers. "It makes it fun for them as they learn more each week."

BELIEVING IN A BIGGER PICTURE

Journalism is not only writing the newest, most exciting story, but also creating the bigger picture. Being that a few words describe more than a couple simple interviews, the journalism students worked hard to investigate and produce an original story. From English to history, many classes are incorporated in the building of the students' writings.

"Journalism is unlike all of my other classes. It can be difficult sometimes, but I can take everything that I learn and apply it to my other classes," said freshman Ivonne Lopez.

Along with many other assignments and worksheets, the students take turns doing headlines, which help with their understanding of how to investigate and research.

"Everyday, somebody has to share three important things that happened the previous day," said freshman Elizabeth Potente. "Headlines are my favorite part of class because it is always interesting to see what people will investigate."

Since journalism is taken as an elective, the class is not as strict as most of the core classes. Also, students of all grades are able to participate and join in the art of writing.

"I love how laid back the class is and how easy it is for students of all different grades to communicate. It gives the class a unique style and helps teach us to get along," said junior Ramya Melichar.

BEHIND THE MEMORIES

"Become, Believe, Be Who You Want to Be." This year's yearbook theme has evolved around the word, "be."

The editors and yearbook class students worked endlessly to perfect the theme and overall look of the yearbook. For the last few years the yearbook has had the same type of color schemes. That's changed this year.

"This year's color scheme is more pastel as compared to the bright colors of the past," said senior editor Maddie Asbjornson. "There's also less copy than in the past."

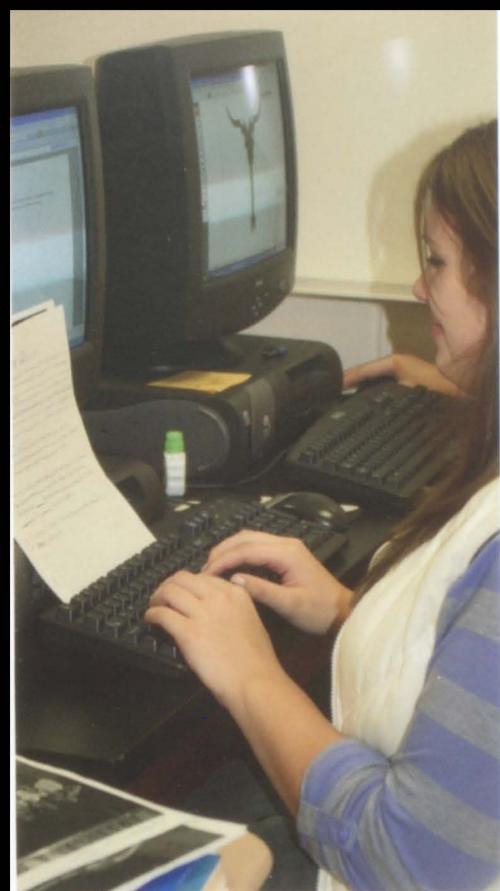

Although editors Maddie Asbjornson, Nicole Fladung and Allyson Klitzke met during the summer to plan the book, the class spent a few days thinking of future headlines.

It is amazing to see how a group of teenagers are able to work together to produce such a piece.

"We put a lot of thought into this and spent a lot of time brainstorming ideas for the 2009-2010 yearbook," said sophomore Maria Benedict.

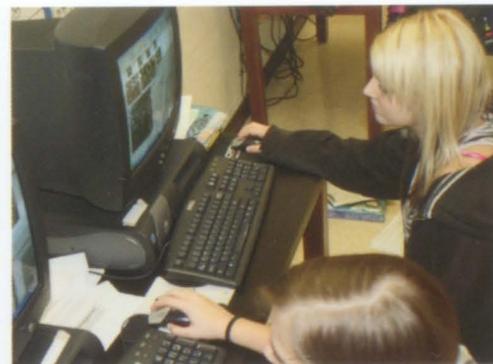

Despite the small number of participants in the class and large portions of work to accomplish, the students worked efficiently while still having an enjoyable time.

"When it comes to our work, Ms. Gregor doesn't 'futz' around, but we always end up having a grand time," said sophomore Samantha Schnyder.

BEING RADICAL

Led by coach Eric Hansen, this year's math league consisted of four members, all of whom share two things in common: their mathematical abilities and their love of competition.

Math League consists of a four month season with practices and competitions beginning in November and ending in February. There's also a state competition held in March for teams who qualify.

Team members would meet in Hansen's room after school to work on competition materials. Practices consisted of working on practice problems and taking practice tests from previous years. It was also a good way for students to discuss perplexing mathematical problems and concepts.

This year the team competed in five competitions, four of which were held at Shakopee High School.

During competition, there are four individual events that consist of topics in algebra, geometry, trigonometry and pre-calculus. There is also a team event, which is a mixture of all four. For the team event, each team selects eight of its members. Since the WHS team was a few members short, team members only competed in the individual portion of the competition.

BEING AUDIBLE

Beep, beep, beep... On a cold Saturday morning, Nick Allen's alarm goes off early in the morning. Across town, Gunnar Sipper groggily awakes. Each boy makes his way to the school at 6:30, ready to load the bus to the speech meet at Eden Prairie High School.

To speech team's eleven participants, Saturday competitions and late night competitions are nothing new. The team, in its third year of existence, competed at five competitions. The Mankato East competition was especially rewarding for team members. Here, seniors Gunnar Sipper and Nick Allen took home first place in the Dynamic Duo category with their piece "Not A Creature Was Stirring," and juniors Bennet Frey and Max Rickel took second place in the Duo category with "Drugs Are Bad." Sophomore Kindra Melichar also had a good day, earning second place in the Serious Interpretation of Poetry category with "On the Pulse of Morning."

Team advisor Adam Bristor felt very happy about the team's showing.

"It was fun to see the team's hard work pay off at East, where we came home with six ribbons," said Bristor.

Bristor said this year's team has been a very satisfying group to work with. He said he'll miss the graduating seniors, who have "really helped the speech team grow in a way that will pay off in future years."

BEYOND A REASONABLE DOUBT

As the presiding judge had just walked through the doors, the whole defense side of the mock trial team was getting nervous, choked up - you name it - it was happening. The pressure was on. They were in the playoffs. Each side had three attorneys, three witnesses, one time keeper and one bailiff. Unfortunately, by the end of the round, Lakeville South had 234 points and Waconia had 220. Waconia lost its playoff round.

With a total of 12 people on the team, there were six attorneys, six witnesses, two timekeepers and two bailiffs. Some people had multiple roles.

The Waconia Mock Trial team went to four official rounds. They had two rounds against Lakeview South, one against Holy Family, and one against Eden Prairie. They lost both rounds against Eden Prairie, the first by 22 points and the last by 14 points. Waconia defeated Holy Family by two points. Waconia also defeated Eden Prairie by 49 points. The biggest winning range of all teams.

Sixth year coach Susan Lund wanted them to progress as far as possible. Most importantly, she wanted the team to improve as much as they could. She felt the biggest events of the year, were the U of M tournament, the Sleepy Eye scrimmage, and the playoffs.

"I think the team did an excellent job. They not only made it to playoffs, but had amazing rounds," said Lund.

BEYOND THE CLASSROOM, INTO THE WORLD

International Club works to broaden the students' horizons in the global community and to promote cultural awareness through fun, friendship and service.

"It's just a group of people who are learning about the different cultures and expanding their world," said advisor Kari Stevenson.

Mr. Fredericksen spoke about his trip to China during the after school assembly on Wednesday, Nov. 18. The group watched a short film and ate Chinese food.

"I learned how to say ni hao, which means hello in Chinese," said Fredericksen.

Rachel Flemming, Victoria Larkin, Brook Wilburg, Megan Radde, and Emily Mueller planned events and got communications out to the other club members.

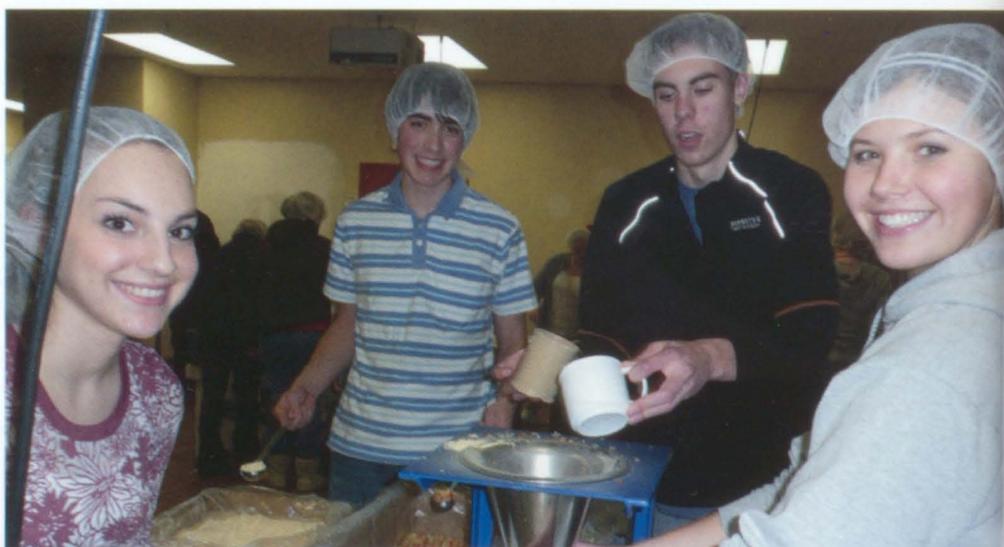

The club planned many events including field trips, the international week, Waconia High School festival of Nations, a movie night, and completed two service projects, Feed My Starving Children and Heifer International.

Stevenson said the club's activities allow students to explore different cultures while doing something positive for other people.

Helping others around the world...

Heifer International: The International Club gathered donations and gave the money to the Heifer International Organization, which in return sends animals to families in third-world countries in need of livestock. The family will then use the animals as their source of income.

Feed My Starving Children: International Club members donated their time at a warehouse in Channahassen where they packaged food to be sent to others in need around the world. They were able to package enough food to feed 20 children for a year.

BEING GREEN, HAVING FUN

From cleaning Lake Waconia to habitat restorations, the conservation club has assisted the community. Although students join to participate in the projects with their friends, their need to give back and help out really shows.

There are many service projects that conservation club members can choose from, but as president of the club senior Pete Brettingen is partially in charge of the decision.

"We figure out what projects we think kids would have fun with and which events we have had success with in the past," said Brettingen.

Since 2006, when the Conservation Club was reorganized, there have been twelve yearly service projects. Although not everyone can participate in each project, the club always tries to incorporate as many people as possible.

"I'm proud to represent this club because we have such a great group of kids involved. We always have fun no matter what we do," said third-year member and vice president Trevor Horning.

Not only are students able to try new things, such as the food from the tailgating party, but they are also rewarded by a sense of accomplishment.

"People are always asking me if the kids are getting worse as the years pass, but the truth is they are actually amazing people, and I think this club proves that," said advisor, Wayne Trapp.

BEING COOPERATIVE

Approximately twenty students are involved in the FFA chapter, a cooperative between Waconia and Chaska. Trying to coordinate activities with two different schools isn't always easy.

"The officers are all from Chaska, so our advisor just calls one of use when there's an upcoming event, and word gets around," said senior Kari Anderson, a second year member.

Word did get around, and members competed and attended many events: the annual corn drive, animal judging contests, and state and national conventions.

The dairy judging team of Anderson, Jacob Melchert, Chaneen Haler and Christine Leonard competed at the regional competition. Haler placed fifth individually. The team placed second earning a trip to judge at state convention. The annual corn drive service project was held in November. Members asked local farmers for corn donations which was then sold at the local elevator, and the proceeds are donated to a charity of the FFA's choice.

"It's a great way to give back to the community," said Melchert.

FFA provides learning, competition and service opportunities in many areas, but farming is still the dominating force of the organization.

"FFA is a great organization," said Haler. "It allows anyone who loves farming to share that passion with others and to make friends with the same passion."

BEING ALONG FOR THE RIDE

Showing horses requires practice and time, especially before the actual competition begins.

“To get ready for a show, you must practice, practice, practice,” said sophomore Emily Martel, who’s been riding and showing for approximately three years. “Before the competition, you need to try and get as good as you possibly be when you are working with your horse.”

Each individual rider has his or her own way of preparing the horse for a competition.

Sophomore Stephanie Wall rides her horse Cola four times a week. She competes in the timed events, so the pair with the fastest time wins. Agility and conditioning are a must. Rest and recovery is also important, so Wall gives Cola the day off before a competition.

Martel likes to be completely organized prior to the show. Her pre-competition activities include clipping and bathing her horse, loading the horse trailer with riding equipment, and packing her show clothing. Preparation helps things go smoothly during a show, when an unpredictable animal may have a mind of its own.

“It’s frustrating when your horse just happens to be spooky the day of the show. But they’re animals and you have to accept that if you want to have a good relationship with them,” said Martel.

BEING A PART OF NEW TRADITIONS

Through dress up days like College Day to Spirit Day to participating in the Winter Olympics, students enjoyed dressing up and having fun throughout Winterfest week. Not only could students participate in the dress up days and competitive events, those 17 and older could also donate blood at the annual Student Council Blood Drive.

The Winterfest dress up days consisted of Comfy Day, Plaid/Flannel Day, Tie Dye/Neon Day, College/Hat Day and Spirit Day.

"I liked how the dress up days were different and unique unlike the past years. It made it more fun to dress up," said junior Whitney Buesgens.

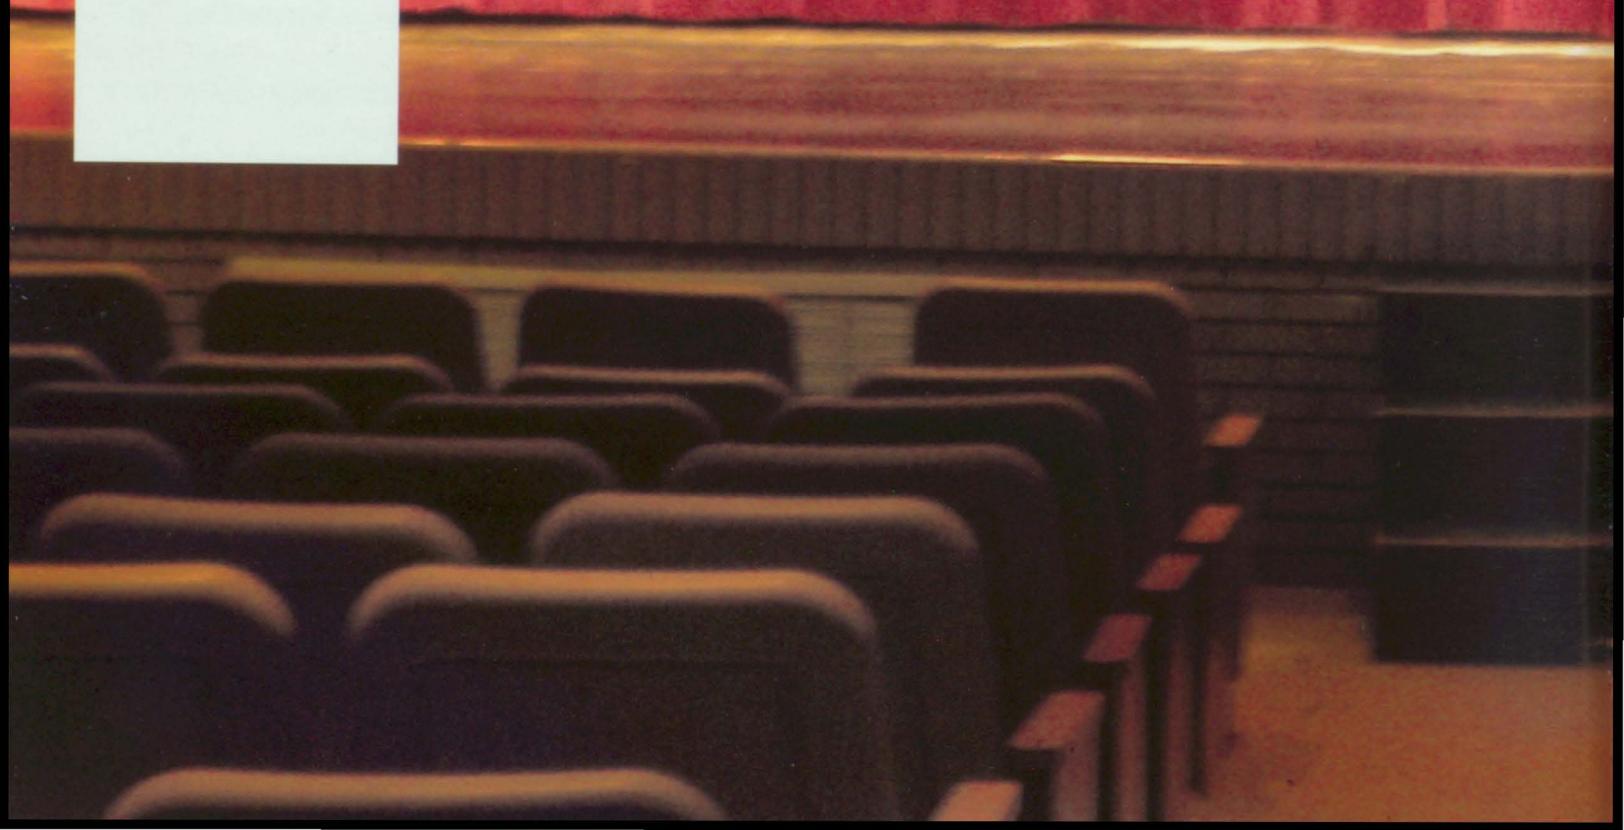

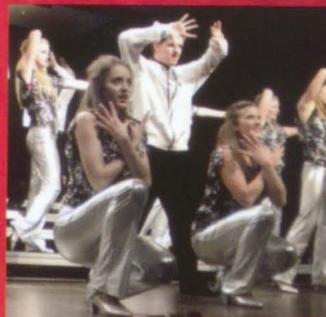

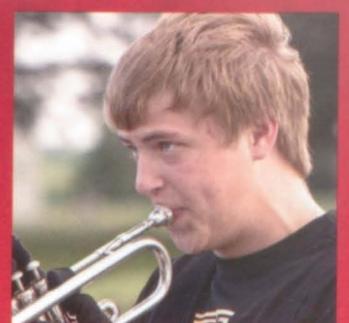

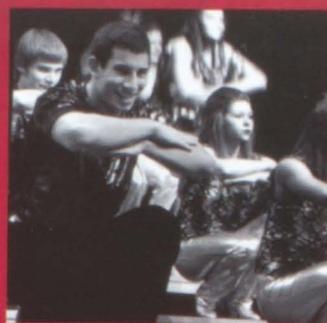

Throughout the week, students could participate in two events during morning break: Tug-of-War and Ping-Pong. Unlike the past years, Student Council added a Ping-Pong and Rock-Paper-Scissors tournament which added more competition to the Winter Olympics.

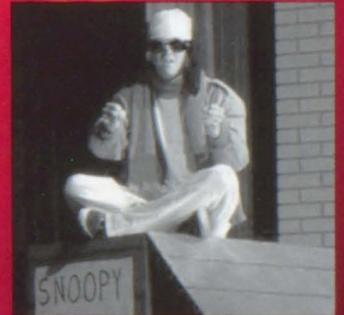

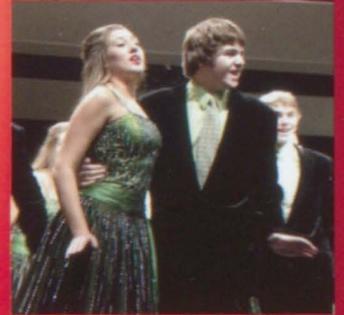

"I'm glad all my hard work these last 12 years has payed off. I intend to visit Europe a bit, take some time off and then resume my training," said Ping-Pong Champion Jack Mitchell.

Through all the commotion with Winter Olympics, there was also one laidback competition - Lips and Legs, a seniors-only competition. This year, Kelsey Wenning won the Lips contest, and Charlie Smothers won the Legs contest.

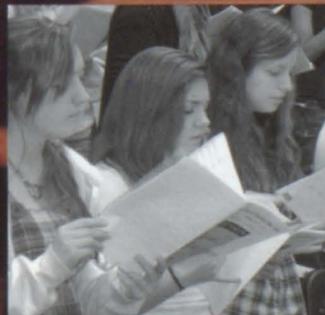

To end the fun and exciting week of Winterfest, there was a Winterfest dance hosted by FCCLA held at the high school on Saturday, Jan. 30.

BEING WITH THE BAND

The lights are dim except for the bright spotlights that shine on the faces of the anxious musicians. As the neatly dressed musicians settle on the stage, Mr. Poland raises his baton. After 45 minutes of warm ups and tuning, the group is ready to make some music.

These young musicians participate in the band program to better their musical skills and perform well at their four concerts, but there's also a competitive aspect to band.

A portion of the year is dedicated to preparation for large group contest, an activity in which the group performs and is rated by a panel of musical experts. This year's Wind Ensemble and Concert Bands received Superior Ratings, the highest marks of excellence.

There's also a solo and ensemble contest in which to participate. For the first time ever, participation in the local solo and ensemble contest was mandatory. Students competed at WHS on April 6 for the opportunity to advance to the Region solo and ensemble contest which was held on April 15.

Whether performing individually or as part of a group, the musicians are united.

"The students are working together to make great music," said Pohland. "They constantly help each other to get better."

BECOMING CHAMPIONS

Combating the blazing sun and a hectic schedule, the Waconia Marching Band still managed to look good by winning first place in every parade this year.

Brady Krusemark and John Poland directed the band to victory, including a victory at Alexandria, the biggest parade all year. There they earned Grand Champion and People's Choice honors. To do this took a lot of time and effort from all 155 members. With 12 parades in the month of June, one rewarding parade in the month of July, and three-hour-long practices every day in the summer, there was not much time to relax.

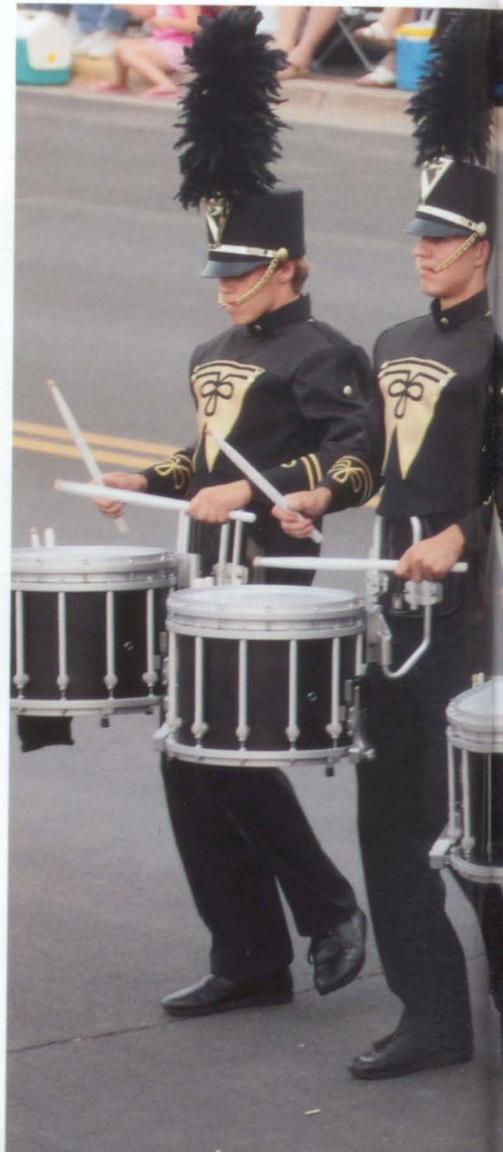

"This was really a great year," said junior Rachel Flemig. "Everyone came together well and made it a very enjoyable, strong season."

Every year the band gets away for a week and performs on July 4. This year, the group packed up and followed the road to Gatlinberg, Tennessee.

"We chose Tennessee this year because it wasn't too expensive, the group had never been there together, and the nearby Nashville is a great music-oriented area," said Krusemark.

For the band's midnight show, they performed in the Gatlinburg Midnight Independence Day Parade and lit the place up, literally.

"Everyone had glow sticks on their instruments, and the streets were completely lit up. It was pretty much amazing," said sophomore Suzanna Wymore.

BECOME A PART OF THE ACTION

During Wildcat sporting events, the pep band's light-hearted, fun music can be heard resonating out the gym doors and into the neighboring hallways.

Whether they're playing a band favorite like Chicago's "25 or 9 to 4" or a crowd favorite like "Tequila" or "Eye of the Tiger," the pep band really attempts to get the Wildcat fans involved. They also like to get themselves involved.

"Getting to dance along with the music is the best part about pep band," said junior Katie Doherty.

The pep band consists of members involved in one of the school's four bands. Each student who is enrolled in a band course must attend four pep band performances in the fall and four pep band performances in the winter. Attendance is used to help determine the student's course grade.

Directed by Brady Krusemark and John Poland, the pep band is kept busy during football, basketball, hockey and wrestling seasons. Of course, each pep band member has his or her favorite activity to play at.

"I like playing for the hockey games. They're my favorite," said Doherty.

AND THE BEAT GOES ON

To most students in sport activities, half time is known as a portion of time in the middle of a game, and a break is what you do when you leave a huddle. To jazz band members, those terms mean something entirely different. Half time means the tempo is half as fast, and a break is a transitional time where soloists play.

Jazz Band consists of two different groups, Jazz I and Jazz II. Students in any band class can audition for either group. Jazz II has limited space for only 20 students, and it consists of a variety of instruments.

The two main concerts are the Spring Jazz Concert and the dinner concert, where the audience sits on the stage while the concert goes on.

"The dinner concert Jazz Band puts on is fun because it has a very old-time jazz feel," said director Brady Krusemark.

Krusemark also likes the feel of the smaller group setting.

"I like Jazz Band because it is a smaller group which gives students more chances to shine and have solos," said Krusemark. "All the students in this group want to be in it by choice."

BECOMING ONE BIG SOUND

"Words make you think a thought. Music makes you feel a feeling. A song makes you feel a thought," these words were said by E.Y. Harburg, an American Lyricist and song writer.

This year, the goal of all the choirs was to sing with unity and emotion. They especially succeeded with this at the Yuletide Festival, leaving people filled with holiday spirit.

All groups started preparing in the fall for the big show, and on Dec. 4 all of the choirs sang their hearts out. All of the lights were bright and shining to try and set the mood.

The first choir, the Concert Choir, took the stage and began the show with big sound and beautiful melodies. All four choirs - Concert, Women's Chorus, Varsity Choir and the Chamber Choir - performed at the festival. They even performed a total of three songs together, two of those with members of the instrumental music program.

At the end, the group ended with the classic "Peace, Peace." This year, the band also sang with the choirs. As they all sang together, the lights were dimmed and the students "passed the light" using candles. Once the whole room was aglow, the seniors made it a medley by singing "Silent Night," and the whole group surrounded the audience, unifying the large ensemble and the audience.

"This was a year of real feeling, positivity, and teamwork," said choir director Aaron Olson.

BEING PART OF A CRAZY BEAT

This year Power Company stole the stage and made crowds go crazy for their show. They began the season at Milton, Wisconsin earning third place. Austin Stole earned the Best Male Soloist award.

At their next competition in Eau Claire, Wisconsin, they made finals and received fourth place. Stole once again earned the Best Male Soloist award. "It was a great feeling hearing my name called out for that special award," said Stole.

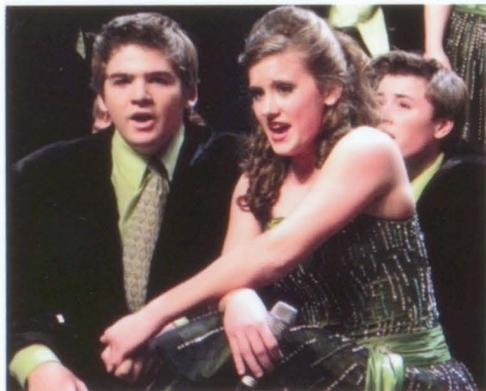

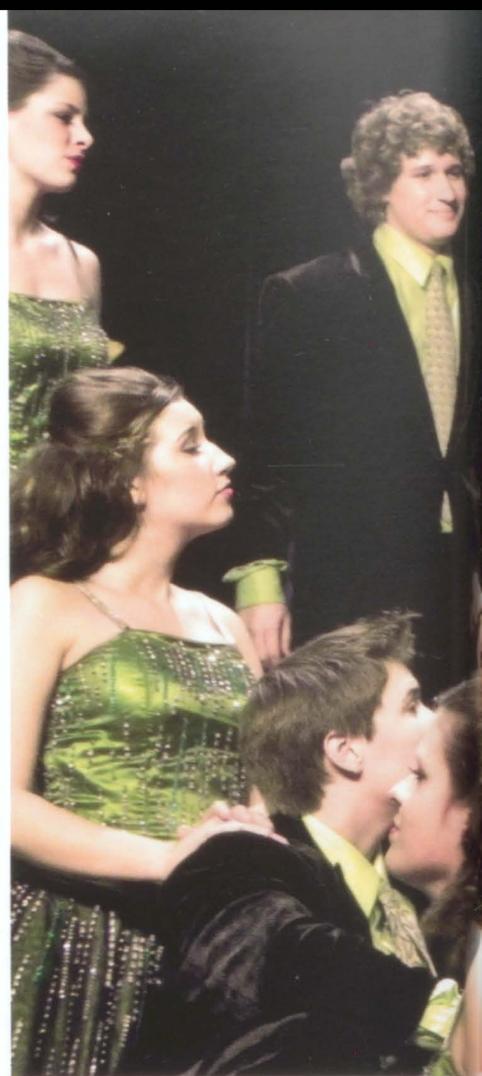

The group placed third at their next competition in Iowa, and Stole received his third soloist award, but the singers were not the only ones scoring trophies. At their last competition, held at Totino Grace in Fridley, Power Company not only took third place, but their band, Megawatt, also took home the Best Band award.

"It was an awesome way to end the season," said senior Anthony McMahon.

The year was full of success and trophies. It was also full of fun. Over spring break, the group had the privilege of taking a Caribbean cruise. They were the entertainment for two nights, along with the Totino Grace show choirs.

The shows did not end there. As usual, Power Company and The Current held the end of the year Show Choir Spectacular.

"Power Company had a lot of talent this year, but what really made them great was all the teamwork," said Power Company director Aaron Olson.

Charlie Brown is in a depressed mood at lunch time. Stole said, "Having to act sad all the time was slightly depressing. I feel bad for Charlie Brown."

GOOD GRIEF! THE CAST MAKES MUSICAL THEIR OWN

This year's fall musical was quite animated, literally. Based on the Peanuts comic strip, which was written by Charles M. Schulz, You're a Good Man Charlie Brown took approximately two months to prepare. It premiered on Nov. 5 and completed its run on Nov. 7.

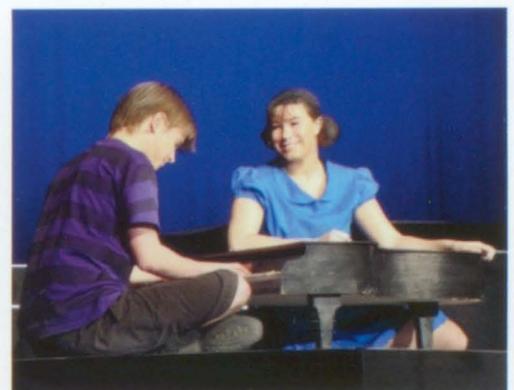

Although most people recall Charlie, Snoopy, Sally, Lucy, Schroeder, and Linus as the Peanuts gang, there were many more characters involved. Instead of limiting the cast to just six people, the directors extended the cast to 35, adding some old classic characters including Woodstock, Peppermint Patty, and Pig Pen. The cast members looked through old comic strips and actually wrote their own script in order to include the newly added characters.

"It was exciting to basically be our own directors," said junior Meghan Radde who played the role of Patty, an added character. "It made the show seem more like our own."

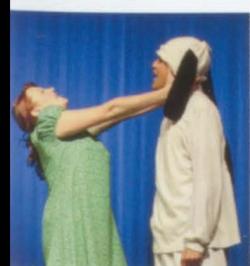

Not only did this change make the show "their own," it also made it more fun, at least according to senior James Russell who played the role of Schroeder.

"It was really gratifying to know we could pull off a show practically by ourselves, which made it a lot more fun and enjoyable for us as a cast, and the audience."

As for the show and putting it together, Austin Stole, who played the role of Charlie Brown added, "The show and practices were great in every way. The whole production was really amazing this year."

Violet (Chaneen Haler) says she would kiss Snoopy if it was not for his fuzzy face. Snoopy was let down yet again.

Linus thinks Lucy is crazy for wanting to be a Queen. His television show got interrupted by her sisterly threats.

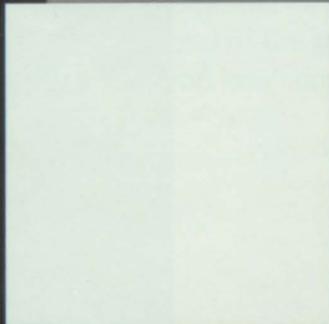

Lucy makes fun of Charlie Brown's big head. His reaction was less than pleasing to her. The other girls, Violet and Patty, found it to be quite entertaining.

INCH BY INCH

"On this team, we fight for that inch. On this team, we tear ourselves, and everyone around us to pieces for that inch. We claw with our finger nails for that inch. Cause we know when we add up all those inches that's going to make the difference between winning and losing, between living and dying." That speech, given by Tony D'Amato, the fictional coach played by Al Pacino in the movie Any Given Sunday, was the team's inspiration.

Dedication and hard work were key points for this year's team. The players worked very hard even through the rainy and snowy weather, which sometimes caused the team to move their practices indoors at Clearwater Middle School. Still, facing all the weather obstacles was worth it come Friday night.

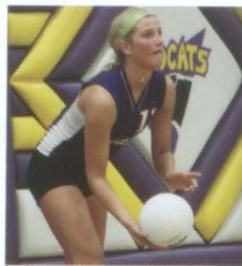

"The best parts of football would definitely be the lights, the fans, and how the team works together as a family," said varsity captains Dillon Pomeroy, Jacob Braunhausen, and Charlie Smothers.

Finishing the season with a 5-5 record, the team improved, inch by inch and game by game.

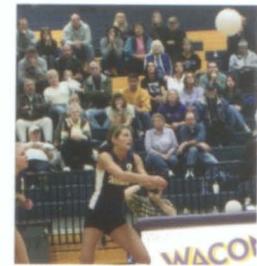

"Overall, our defense had a great season, the offense got better over time, and everything came together by the end of the season. We could have won more, but I guess you win some and you lose some," said senior Trevor Horning.

BEING A PART OF SOMETHING

From pre-season try outs to competing in the Wright County Conference, the varsity team showed full dedication at every practice and at every game.

Getting on the team wasn't so easy. All of the girls who tried out had to go through 24 intense skill sets just to have a chance to compete at the varsity level. Eventually, 11 girls were selected for the squad.

Coach Lee's goals for the team this year were to improve in every aspect and to compete in all tournaments possible. Overall, Lee said he thought his team competed very well.

They faced strong competition in both conference and tournament place and finished third in the Wright County Conference standings.

One of the most significant non-conference games of the season was playing Eden Prairie, who, according to junior Whitney Buesgens, is one of the team's favorite opponents. The team also had a strong showing at the Marshall tournament, defeating the second seeded team.

The team's two seniors, Beth Aeling and Jessica Rice, ended their varsity careers with great memories and provided leadership for their fellow players.

Even though the varsity team didn't win the conference title or win every tournament it entered, members may have gained something more valuable.

"All of the girls had gained experience and improved very well," said Lee.

NEW OPPORTUNITIES

Snow was coming down the morning of October 12, 2009, and cross country participants wondered all day whether or not their conference meet would be canceled. Meets were usually canceled if it was raining badly, but they had never experienced snow. In the middle of the day, Coach Clark Machtemes informed them that the meet was still scheduled.

"Running in the snow was actually pretty fun but very cold. It was also my favorite memory of the season," said sophomore Danielle Kirsch.

Competing in the snow was just one new opportunity for the team. Seventh grader Alexis Willems became the first Wildcat to compete at the state meet since 2001. Running many miles over the summer and constantly working to improve her times helped her prepare for the season.

"She would critique and push herself to the best of her abilities during practices and meets. It definitely paid off," said Machtemes.

One thing that hampered some runners wasn't an opponent, it was the flu. Following the Shakopee meet, sophomore Drew Neubauer ended up sitting out the rest of the season due to the flu.

"It was hard seeing teammates sit out when you couldn't do anything, especially the seniors," said senior Dacotah Smith.

With all of the new opportunities, the team still maintained their optimism. "It was my favorite season by far," said senior Kerry Hayes.

BE AWARE

This year head coach Tyrel Seim preached to the team about mental toughness. He told them to always think things through and to always anticipate their next moves, skills crucial for defeating opposing teams. His idea of mental toughness really paid off in the end.

The team finished second in conference play and three players received All Conference honors: junior forward Mark Kapuska, senior defender Reese Weber, and senior midfielder Matt Carson. Senior defender Logan Sohns, senior defender Spencer Reichenberger, and senior midfielder Justin Sperbeck were named all conference honorable mention.

Besides being mentally tough, the guys wanted to look the part as well. The team met at senior goalie Jared Tuttle's house to shave their heads and make "lazer lines" on the side of their heads. Some players even went the extra mile to style their hair into a fohawk.

The first game after shaving their heads the team wore hats on the field. After the National Anthem the team removed their hats to play the game.

"The moment we took our hats off we were all pumped to play the game. It was like our new hair cut psyched us up and gave us a confidence rush," said Bailey Monson.

The team had many entertaining moments. "Not only was shaving our heads memorable, but so were the team meals," said Logan Sohns.

Before each game a different senior would host the team meal. They would eat and play video games. Fifa '09 was always a team favorite.

"All the fun we had together off the field I think really helped us play well together on the field," said Reichenberger.

BEST WE CAN BE

Through much sickness and many injuries, the girls varsity soccer team and their coach, Gretchen Fritz, managed to post a 10-8-1 record.

One of the girls' biggest challenges wasn't an opposing team, it was illness.

"Our biggest struggle this year was all of the sicknesses," said senior Leah Christensen, a forward on the team. "There was more this year than usual which caused us to lose some of our starting players."

Even though there were some road blocks on the field, on game days the girls managed to have fun on team dress up days. Whether they were dressing like boys, cowgirls, 80's workout instructors or firemen to put out the Holy Family Fire, the team showed its great style.

"I really loved the dress up days this year," said Christensen. "They were fun, exciting and different, and they also were very creative compared to previous years."

On the field, mental preparedness was another challenge faced by the Wildcats.

"We were losing the game mentally, not physically," said coach Fritz.

Still, the team did have its share of accomplishments, including beating St. Cloud Cathedral 3-1, something that hadn't happened for four years. The team also posted six shut out victories.

The team ended its season with a 0-1 hard fought loss to Orono. Even though the loss ended the team's season, Christensen still remained optimistic.

"We could have done better, and we should have done better, but I guess we did the best we could do with the struggles we had," she said.

BEING PREPARED

Throughout a swimmer's career, he or she needs to develop in three key areas: speed, strength, and endurance. The girls' team worked to improve in these three areas.

Their speed was shown when they broke three school records. Alisha Bruner broke the 50 freestyle record with a time of 25.64. She also broke the 100 backstroke record with a time of 1:02.71. The 200 freestyle relay record was broken by a team consisting of Bruner, Taylor Kahl, Hannah Nagy and Addy Scrimgeour.

"The girls destroyed the school record with a time of 1:45:49," said Coach Chuck Charmstrom.

Strength was another big part of their success. Varsity girls woke up for six a.m. practices that consisted of strength and endurance training. Each week the practices were harder, but they improved the girls' performances.

"I think the whole aspect of getting better and improving is because of weight training," said Bruner. "You can swim and swim some more, but the only way you get better is by getting stronger when you participate in the higher level of swimming."

The girls increased endurance by swimming many yards during practice. Eventually, two team members earned a trip to the state swim meet. Bruner swam the 100 backstroke, placing tenth, and Brittany Van Houtte competed in diving.

BEING ON A ROLL

Being only two years young, the bowling team isn't flawless, but that doesn't take away from the energy of this year's co-ed team.

The bowling team was founded by senior Sam Niccum prior to her junior year, the 2008-2009 school year. Niccum decided to begin a bowling team after she played in a league outside of school. Along with junior Adam Biegel, she was one of this year's captains.

The team itself was relatively small consisting of twelve to fourteen people, but what they lacked in the numbers was made up for in enthusiasm.

With little to no pressure, the typical atmosphere on the team is easygoing and laid back. Don't underestimate it though, the meets and practices are just as competitive as any other sport, but still enjoyable.

As cliché as it may be, the bowling team is best described as one big family. Even though the small number made it easy for the members to grow close and develop friendly bonds, it is a goal of the team to acquire more participants in the future.

The hope is that the bowling team will continue to grow and become better known throughout the school.

WILLY BELONGS

An old proverb says, "What goes around, comes around," and now Willy the Wildcat, the cheerleading mascot, came back around this year.

The cheerleading squad made a decision this year that they hoped would help their squad interact more with the game crowds and Waconia students. They had Willy the Wildcat come back in the form of senior Kelsi Ruther.

The fall cheerleading squad and their coach, Juliette Vredeburg, pooled their creativity together to make the final decisions. That's how they decided to bring Willy the Wildcat back.

"As a kid, I always remembered the mascot and how cool it was," said team-captain Tiffany Johnson. "When the squad went to all the schools for pep-fest, immediately the kids went loco for Willy."

Ruther had been a team captain for two years, but an after school job kept her away from cheering. She was then offered the position of team mascot, which allowed her to be part of the squad once again.

"I felt so happy to be back. I missed the team's bonding," said Ruther.

BEING DEFENSIVE

Based on the boys' basketball team's previous success, four conference titles in the past five years, head coach Pat Hayes was very optimistic at the start of the season.

With the loss of just three seniors to graduation, Hayes was confident about his team's chances during the 2009-2010 season.

The Wildcats received plenty of production from the returning players including junior forward Shelby Moats; senior guard Danny Fischbach; senior center Logan Sohns; senior forward Patrick Logelin; junior Bronson Scheff, a guard; junior Ben Kortuem; and sophomore Alex Schmitt.

The team's success didn't always come easy, as they tried to keep pace with Orono in the Wright County Conference. They focused more on their defense and cut down on turnovers, which led to success, a 22-4 season record.

With this new concentration, they had a lot of success on the court and the most memorable moment of all may have been defeating Orono 59-49 to claim the Wright County Conference title. The team finished the conference schedule with a 15-1 record before beginning section play.

In section play, the Wildcats lost a close game to Minneapolis Washburn, 47-49, ending their season.

BETTER THE SECOND TIME AROUND

Winning a conference title is a great accomplishment. Winning a conference title against strong competition is even better. Winning your second conference title in two years is even better.

The team knew what it was like to win a conference championship. They won conference in 2009. This year they hoped to do that and more.

"As a team we all wanted the same thing: a conference title and a run at state," said junior Quincee Raymond.

The season began with strong conference play. The girls won eight conference games, two against Orono, and played well against non-conference opponents. The Annandale Cardinals spoiled the girls' chances at a perfect conference record by handing the girls their one and only conference loss.

"We didn't exactly play our best, but we proved ourselves by beating them by 18 points in our second meeting," said junior Whitney Buesgens.

Following strong non-conference play, including a near defeat of top ranked De La Salle, the girls defeated the Cardinals 70-52 to earn their second straight Wright County Conference championship and finish conference play with a 15-1 record.

"It's such a great accomplishment for our team. I am honored to be a part of it," said junior Morgan Schultz.

BE AGGRESSIVE, BE A TEAMMATE

This year the wrestling team has really come to prove that hard work pays off. Starting off the season with a win, team members were optimistic for the rest of the season. Unfortunately, they hit a tough spot

"Hitting a tough spot had an effect on the team, but we just picked ourselves back up and practiced harder," said senior Tyler Nordby.

Working harder paid off too. After their "rough patch" the team kicked it into high gear winning the next 21 matches. Winning was a big boost for the team, but they wouldn't have gotten there if it wasn't for all the hard work and determination.

"We got to where we are by pushing each other 100% in practice," said senior John Castaneda.

Although being a team and a "family" is a big part of wrestling, that was not what the team was all about this year.

The team faced and beat Glencoe, and then began individual sections in Delano. Throughout the season, they made sure they all supported one another.

"There is no 'star' on the team. We all have good and bad days, but no matter what, we always have a winner's attitude," said junior Ryan Eischens.

BEING RHYTHMIC

If you asked any Lakette what this season's goal was, she probably would have replied, "to go to state."

This year the Lakettes did just that. After last season's disappointing end, the dance team was more determined than ever to take it to the next level. Everyone, including the coaches, put in more effort and had more motivation at each and every practice.

With this new found energy, the team hit the ground running, placing first in High Kick at their very first competition in Apple Valley. The Lakettes kept this momentum throughout the season with tougher practices, more drills, and more focus. Teammates pushed one another to become the best dancers possible.

All this hard work paid off when they finished second in high kick at the 3AA Section competition, qualifying for state. This achievement alone was a dream come true, but it was topped with an eighth place finish at state.

Even though the Lakettes worked extremely hard this season, they still knew how to relax and have fun. Team dinners or breakfasts before a competition helped build individual relationships and bond the entire team. Drama was forgotten and differences were set aside, creating an even stronger feeling of sisterhood.

LET THE GAMES BEGIN

Starting the second season in the new arena still led to a rivalry between Waconia and Holy Family.

"Everyone knew it was going to be a good game," said senior Tyler Burmeister.

The season started out by choosing the captains and holding practices between November and March.

"Sometimes it feels like it never ends," said senior Brian McAvoy.

To prepare for a game, many grab something to eat, show up to the rink early, and listen to music to get themselves pumped up. Senior Pete Brettingen said that cold showers and stretching helps also.

After ten games, it was finally time to face Holy Family. The arena was full and everyone was ready for the game to begin. McAvoy said that the team's adrenaline was pumping and no one could wait to get onto the ice. Once on the ice, both teams became very aggressive and even a few fights broke out. "It was crazy," said Burmeister.

The team lost the first contest to Holy Family 2-3. Unfortunately, they also lost the second game against Holy Family 2-9.

The team ended their season with 62 goals and two wins.

BEING A FAMILY

Getting along and having everyone work together was key for the team this year. They were part of a cooperative with Holy Family Catholic School.

"All the girls get along great, and it is never segregated. It is always us together," said Watson.

The team decided to take a new route as they had new coaches and a determined mind. Freshman Grace Watson said that the team's goals were to win most of their games while still having fun.

"The best part about being a part of the team is how much fun we had together and how close we all became," said sophomore Kelsey Burmeister.

According to sophomore Carly Taylor, another team goal was to win its first varsity game, which it did. They finished the season with a 10-20 record.

Overall, team members said they met their expectations.

"I've never played this sport before, and I never would have guessed the season to go as well as it did. It was exactly what I wanted," said senior Carly Stockert.

BEST WE CAN BE

Improvement was the main goal for the team this season.

“Our goals were to improve ourselves so we could beat teams and possibly go to state. We came really close as we got second out of eight teams at sections,” said junior Emily Sanborn.

Freshman Alexanna Gluck and eighth grader Jade Swensen were two girls that qualified for state. Gluck finished with an all-around score of 34.150 and placed 25th at the Class A state competition. Swensen finished 17th in balance beam with a score of 8.825.

Sanborn said that cheering and watching the girls go to state was one of her favorite moments of the season. The girls helped keep each other motivated.

“Music really helps me stay motivated, and when we just have fun as a team, we tend to do better,” said senior Brittany Van Houtte.

Each girl worked individually on what she thought needed improvement. Sanborn said this was a season filled with many individual highlights and memorable accomplishments.

“I’m proud of our team and our accomplishments this year,” said Sanborn.

BEING QUICK TO THE FINISH

The Alpine ski team is comprised of members from Waconia, Watertown, Mound-Westonka, and Holy Family. There are 37 members total, five from Waconia.

"The team placing works much like swimming," explained junior Jimmy Froehling, "It is an individual sport, but all the times on the varsity team add up to see who the winning team is."

The ski team started practices at the end of fall with dry-land practices; shortly after Thanksgiving they started skiing.

The ski team had many races this year and made it to sections. Waconia racers competed separately in the Section 5 race held on Feb. 2. Madilynn Honnold finished as Waconia's top female finisher placing 60th out of over 90 racers. Turi Hjelsand and Freddi Lobbecke also performed well at sections.

On the boys' side, junior James Froehling, finished his two races with a combined time of 1:14.00, placing 49th out of 92 racers.

"Everyone did a great job," said head coach Lisa Froehling. "It was really great to see new skiers join the team this year and improve throughout the season. The sections race was a blast as always, and we are looking forward to next year."

BEING A RECORD BREAKER

This was an exciting year for the boys' swim team. Waconia's own Will Chandler was one of four swimmers who helped the Watertown-Mayer/Waconia/Delano boys' swimming team win the 400-meter freestyle relay in conference record-setting time at the Cambridge-Isanti meet on Jan. 28. The winning time of 3:25.60 shattered the old Mississippi 8 Conference record of 3:29.83.

After their victorious finish against Cambridge-Isanti, the swimming team defeated Orono on Feb. 4. With the Royals and Spartans tied at 86-86 heading into the final event, the Royals' relay team of Chandler, Blake Asbury, Caleb McKusick and Adam Arveson swam the 400 freestyle relay and captured first place, earning a 98-88 victory over their conference rival.

Waconia's Chandler qualified for two events at the state swim meet which was held at the University of Minnesota Aquatics Center. Chandler competed as a member of the 200 free style relay team and as a member of the 400 free style relay team. The teams finished 9th in the 200 free style and 10th in the 400 free style.

"With all the accomplishments and the seniors leaving this year, I have felt as though it was my senior year as well, and I pushed myself to do the best I could because of it," said Chandler.

Taylor Publishing of Dallas, Texas, published the 2009-2010 Waconia High School yearbook, which consisted of 160 pages printed on 100# glossy paper. Approximately 700 books were shipped, each pre-purchased for $59 through the Smart-Pay program. The Adobe CS3 software was used to design the book. Fonts included Real Virtue 30 point for headlines; Rinna 12 point for body copy; Rinna 10 point for captions.

Seventeen students enrolled in the Introduction to Yearbook and Yearbook II course completed the yearbook during trimesters one and two. Students were advised by Megan Gregor, and Maddie Asbjornson, Nicole Fladung and Allyson Klitzke were editors. The book's theme, "Be," was created by the editors.

The staff would like to thank Bruce Lammers at Taylor Publishing; Christy Powell at Smart-Pay; Mr. Mark Torborg for taking photos; Lynn Laumann Photography; Wedin Photography; VIP Photography; all the parents and students who contributed photos; Activities Director David Kuehn; Activities Administrative Assistant Mary Ellen Timmers; Principal Mark Fredericksen; and office personnel Monica Vierling Hall, Lori Schwartz and Judy Rademacher.

The yearbook staff would like to thank you for your resources, time, patience and support while this book was in production.

High school is BEYOND learning the generals such as math or English. Our learning experience BE- COMES much more than that. High school helps us discover qualities, traits and talents that we may BEHOLD. We need to determine our passions and let them drive us, BE as we envision ourselves to BE and nothing less than the best we can BE. Ralph Waldo Emerson said, "The only person you are destined to BECOME is the person you decide to BE." He also said, "What lies BEHIND us and what lies BEFORE us are tiny matters compared to what lies within us." You have created your past and you will create your future as well. This may BE the end of the 2009-2010 year, but it is just the BEGINNING of our lives. Wherever you decide to go, go with all your heart and follow all your dreams.

OTB

We were all really excited about being editors for the 2009-2010 yearbook. We started planning out the book in late August when we quickly discovered our theme. After choosing our theme, the fonts, colors and layouts were chosen.

Yearbook is not just an "easy A" class that you can take. Being editors, we had to put in a lot of time and effort, and it can be very stressful. We had a lot of responsibilities including fixing pages and getting spreads done on time. Though it can be very stressful, we editors have a lot of fun, and we enjoy seeing the progression of the book.

After high school we are going to all go our separate ways. Editor-in-Chief Maddie Asbjornson will be attending the University of Nebraska-Lincoln where she will either be majoring in journalism or architecture. Editor Nicole Fladung will be going to school at the University of Wisconsin Stevens Point where she will be majoring in graphic design. Allyson Klitzke, who was also an editor this year, will be going to South Central Technical College and majoring in dental assisting.

We hope everyone enjoys the book.
